Kentucky Educational Ass'n.

The Association has existed forty-one years and its highest membership previous to this year was not more than 800. This year the officers set a slogan of 2500, and now have about reached it. They will endeavor to have 5000 before the meeting closes at Louisville next week. Everybody should help in making that record.

Louisville is planning to give a grand floral parade on the afternoon of next Tuesday, the 25th., in honor of the Kentucky Educational Association. Parade will be five miles long, and will include three hundred automobiles, many carriages, floats and horses, gaily decorated. An educational division of the parade will include the old-time and the new type school, a real school farm, a Rowan County moonlight school and other interesting features.

A great meeting of school trustees will be held on Tuesday afternoon. Judge Henry S. Barker, of the State University will address the trustees, and many of them will make addresses during round table conferences. Five hundred school trustees are expected to be present.

An exhibit of articles made by school children of the State will be one of the features—sewing, embroidery, furniture, etc.

Besides many men and women of international fame, a child will address the Association—Lois Edmonds, a little girl aged twelve, known as "The Champion Bread-maker of Iowa."

The musical program alone is worth the trip. The Strollers, a noted male quartette of Chicago, will sing between the addresses. Also, Miss Lelia Patridge, of Richmond, has composed a school song, "The Song of the Leaders," which will be sung by the Association after a reading of same by the author. The Band of the Louisville Industrial School, and the Boys Choir of that school will render some fine music. The school children of Louisville will present a cantata, and there will be many other features.

David Starr Jordan, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, Dr. P. P. Claxton, President Charles F. Thwing, and the others from different parts of America, are men who are sought by the National Educational Association, and it is seldom that any State Association can secure them. Everybody should hear them.

Each Congressional District will have its own headquarters. Also, the convention hall is to be divided into sections for each of those districts, with banners above them, showing which sections of the State are broadly interested in education.

JUNE WEDDINGS

Two More Brilliant Nuptial Events In Christian County.

The wedding of Miss Mary Sebastian Whitaker to Dr. Brice Presley Moffatt was a society event of unusual interest yesterday. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Whitaker, near Casky, and was witnessed by a large number of invited guests.

It was a porch wedding, the ceremony being pronounced on the veranda of the Whitaker home, which was decorated in pink and green. The guests were seated in the yard.

Miss Joe Carr played Lohengrin's wedding march before and Mendelssohn's march after the ceremony, which was pronounced by Rev. J. B. Eshman, of the C. P. church, assisted by Rev. J. L. Goodnight, of Lincoln, Ill., at four o'clock. The maid of honor was Miss Kathleen Garrett and the Matron of honor Mrs. Edna Perry, the bride's sister. The bridesmaids were Misses Narcissus McKee, Bessie Carter, Mary Thomas Garrett and Lula Simpson, of Tusculum, Ala. The groom's best man was Mr. J. W. Vick, of Illinois, and other attendants were Messrs. Garrett Hopson, Frank Boyd, Warren Dulin and Wm. Warfield.

Miss Emma Noe sang "Oh Promise Me."

Dr. and Mrs. Moffatt left on the evening train for a week's trip to Chicago. They received many handsome gifts.

Doctor Moffatt is a prominent and successful young doctor of Troy, Tenn. His bride is one of Christian county's most charming young ladies.

Chisholm-Lackey.

Mr. Lander J. Chisholm, of Earlinton, and Miss Ruby Lackey, of Pembroke, were married yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, in the Methodist Church in Pembroke.

The attendants were Miss Camille Lackey, the bride's sister, maid of honor, and Mr. Eldon Crutchfield best man; Miss Ruth Williams and Mr. Geo. Lackey; Miss Mary Kennedy, of Paducah, and Mr. Ed Morrison, of Earlinton.

The ushers were Walter Wood, Helena, Ark.; Will Morrison, Madisonville, Ross Wood and R. Y. Pendleton.

The young couple took the Dixie Flyer for a bridal tour to Chicago and the lakes, after which they will be at home in Earlinton, where the groom is engaged in the drug business. The bride is a sister of Dr. W. A. Lackey and Mr. Geo. E. Lackey, of this city, and is one of Pembroke's prettiest girls.

Rev. Mr. Hule was the officiating clergyman, assisted by Rev. A. R. Kasey.

Gardner-Tanner.

Mrs. E. G. Tanner, of Nashville, announces the marriage of her daughter, Lillian Estelle to Mr. Jesse D. Gardner, at home, at eight o'clock June 26, 1912. The bride-elect is a pretty and attractive young lady and has many friends here. She will be remembered as the maid of honor at Miss Kathleen Frances wedding last summer.

Lancaster-Broadbent.

Joe Lancaster and Miss Annie Broadbent, young people of near Wallonia, were married in this city Tuesday. Judge Knight performed the ceremony in the county clerk's office. Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster will make their future home in Paducah.

Tuberculosis Victim.

Author Lee Simpson, aged 26 years, died Tuesday night at his home near Larkin. Tuberculosis caused his death. He was a son of Mr. George Simpson and was married. The deceased had been in declining health for a year or more. The body will be interred in the family burying ground to-day.

TAFT ORGANIZES CONVENTION BY ELECTING ROOT CHAIRMAN

First Line-up Showed 558 For Root and 502 For McGovern, Field's Choice.

Roosevelt Shriekers Protested With Much Lung Power and Some Awful Threats, But to No Avail.

Chicago, June 19.—Against the threats, charges and bitter invective of the Roosevelt forces, Taft supporters in the republican national convention last night put through the first portion of their program by electing Senator Elihu Root, of New York, as temporary chairman. In spite of the fact that Victor Roosevelt, chairman of the national committee, consistently ruled out of order every motion made by the Roosevelt forces, it required more than five hours to reach a vote on the temporary chairmanship.

Calling of the roll was beset with difficulties from the very first name on the list of delegates, but in the end, when the tumult had died away, Senator Root was found to have won by a vote of 558 to 502 for Gov. Francis E. McGovern, of Wisconsin, with 14 scattering votes and four not voting.

While Mr. Root was made chairman and managed to deliver his "keynote" speech, the fighting was renewed at 11 o'clock to-day when the motion of the Roosevelt leaders to substitute a new list of delegates for those seated in some of the contested cases heard before the national committee was taken up as the unfinished business. No committees were named last night and none will be until this motion to "purge" the convention of "fraudulent delegates," is disposed of. It was defeated on a point of order, but the Roosevelt forces declare that parliamentary practice will not be permitted to stand in their way to-day.

The Roosevelt people and the Taft people carried out their programs as announced in advance almost to the letter. The Roosevelt people say they are going to fight every inch of the way.

There were cries of "bolters," hurled at the Roosevelt delegates at times during the session, but the contingency of a bolt again seems to be far distant.

PROTECTION BY THE POLICE

Chicago, June 19.—The all day debate on correcting the roll is proceeding with police-men everywhere to keep the chairman free from molestation. There is much talk of a dark horse, but the President is standing pat.

President Taft, basing his claims for a renomination on the record of his administration, has the support of the party organization in many states, and of those Republicans who are opposed to what they consider the too radical ideas of Colonel Roosevelt, Senator Cummins and Senator La Follette.

CIRCUIT COURT COLORED TEACHERS

Cooper Weakens Loses The Damage Suit Growing Out of Accident.

In Circuit Court the suit of William Cooper Weakens, by his guardian, against the McDowell Construction Co. and the L. & N. Railroad, was tried and a verdict rendered for the defendants Tuesday. The plaintiff sustained an injury to his hand by the explosion of a dynamite cap. The suit was for $2,000 damages. In the case of W. R. Russell vs. C. J. Gee, a suit for $200 damages, the jury gave Russell $50. The plaintiff's buggy collided with defendant's automobile on the street. The defense was that the buggy backed into the automobile.

J. L. SHRODE

Is Elected President of The Kentucky Stationary Engineers.

The tenth annual convention of the Kentucky State Association of Stationary Engineers concluded its session at Owensboro by electing the following officers: J. L. Shrode of Hopkinsville, president; C. C. Carroll of Louisville, vice president; James R. Morris, of Hopkinsville, secretary; Ed Kochenrath, of Louisville, treasurer; T. R. Stratton, of Lexington, conductor; J. N. Draper, of Henderson, doorkeeper, and James R. Hopkins, of Louisville, state deputy.

Hopkinsville was selected for the 1913 meeting.

Eleven Previous Conventions.

The record of republican national conventions and candidates held since the close of the civil war is as follows:

- Chicago, May 20, 1868—Ulysses S. Grant, of Illinois, and Schuyler Colfax, of Indiana.
- Philadelphia, June 5, 1872—Ulysses S. Grant, of Illinois, and Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts.
- Cincinnati, June 14, 1876—Rutherford B. Hayes, of Ohio, and William A. Wheeler, of New York.
- Chicago, June 2, 1880—James A. Garfield, of Ohio, and Chester A. Arthur, of New York.
- Chicago, June 8, 1884—James G. Blaine, of Maine, and John A. Logan, of Illinois.
- Chicago, June 19, 1888—Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, and Levi P. Morton, of New York.
- Minneapolis, June 7, 1892—Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, and Levi P. Morton, of New York.
- St. Louis, June 7, 1896—William McKinley, of Ohio, and Garret A. Hobart, of New Jersey.
- Philadelphia, June 19, 1900—William McKinley, of Ohio, and Theodore Roosevelt, of New York.
- Chicago, June 21, 1904—Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, and Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana.
- Chicago, June 16, 1908—William H. Taft, of Ohio, and James S. Sherman, of New York.

Farmer Found Dead.

Trenton, Ky., June 18.—Cole Dickinson, a young bachelor farmer near town, was found dead in the woods not far from his home today. He left the home of his cousin, W. A. Dickinson, yesterday evening about 5 o'clock, saying he was going to the stable to curry the horses and never returned. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that he came to his death by his own hands by taking Paris green, the drug poison being found near where he lay. Deceased had been in bad health for several years and he was very despondent.

Italy Ready For Peace.

London, June 19.—Italy has agreed to a conference of the powers for the settlement of the war with Turkey, according to a dispatch to the Daily Express from Rome. If Turkey is willing, an armistice will speedily be arranged.

Eskimo Woman Made Good.

When a woman in an enlightened country makes her way to a front rank in the industrial world, the fact soon becomes known and people are eager to learn something of the conditions that brought it about and of the character of the one who accomplished it. That a woman with a brown skin should also successfully compete with the men of her race is less generally understood. Out of the 260 Eskimos who owe reindeer in Alaska, two are women. One of these, Mary Arisarluk Andrewnk, has received the title of "Reindeer Queen of Alaska."

"Queen Mary" owns a herd of 1,303 deer which she manages with judgment and intelligence. According to the usual contract made with the government she is required to train three apprentices and to give each the customary number of deer. She has done better than this. She has trained and rewarded eight or ten apprentices, and at the present time has another under her care. She long since discarded the igloo, or native hut, half underground, in which she was born, and is now comfortably housed near Nome, in a cabin of logs. She speaks seven or eight Indian languages, and this has enabled her to be of considerable service as an interpreter.

Queen Mary has brought up a number of helpless children, and having none of her own, has not only cared for them physically, but has also given them a place in her heart. Surely, according to her light, "she hath done her part."—Christian Herald.

Teddy should remember that the 18th of June was the 97th anniversary of the battle of Waterloo.

Chicago was given a new sensation when a candidate for president hit the town with a knife in his teeth, a big stick in one hand and a roll of bills in the other. Perhaps after all, the game was never-played.

The colored delegates to Chicago are in clover waist-deep. They are having the time of their lives. In the crisis through which the Republican party is passing Rastus holds the balance of power. Both sides want him and must have him. He can get 'most anything he asks for—even money. Will he be able to return to his constituents like Caesar's wife? Will he remain as pure as the icicles that hung from Diana's temple? He may, but better watch him.

Drives off a Terror.

The chief executioner of death in the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off. Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Rawsonville, Vt., "and for coughs, colds and croup we have never found its equal." Guaranteed for all bronchial affections. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

MISTAKE CORRECTED.

Confusion in Names In a News Item Tuesday.

Cecil Woosley, the young salesman for the C. W. Kitchen Co., was unintentionally referred to in a news item in the last issue of the Kentuckian as "a negro boy." Mr. Woosley happened to see the negroes quarreling and in the confusion of names and colors an injustice was done him, which we hasten to correct. Mr. Woosley is a prominent and highly esteemed young gentleman and we regret that the Kentuckian's informant should have, in any way, connected his name with the fight referred to.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made just for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism, Electric Bitters have no equal. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

Woman Aviator Killed.

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—Miss Julia Clark was instantly killed while making a flight in an aeroplane at the state fair grounds Monday. She fell in a tree. Miss Clark was a Chicago girl who became interested in aviation during the international aviation meet in Chicago in August, 1911. She became acquainted with the flyers and last fall went to San Diego, Cal., to learn to operate a biplane. In this she was successful and was the third American woman to obtain an international aviation pilot license.

Stephen's Statistics

By JOHN PHILIP ORTH

(Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.)

There was no question but that Miss Gladys Farnham got a good husband when she married Stephen Agnew. He was with a life insurance company and stood high for character. For the first three months after marriage there were entertainments at home and the theater and other things abroad, but then a change came. Mr. Agnew became preoccupied. He went about whispering to himself, and he neither wanted company at home nor to seek diversion outside. Every night upon his arrival home it was the library for him, and all the explanation he had was that he was very busy with office matters.

If the young wife had been a coaxing, persistent woman she could have learned all about it after a bit, but she didn't coax, and after what she felt was the one rebuff, she had no more questions to ask. She took it out in thinking, and at the end of six months she had come to the conclusion that her husband was a disappointed man in marriage. He was still kindly and even-tempered, but unless something preyed on his mind, why should he go about with that absent look on his face, and why should he shut himself up at home?

There was a reason, and the wonder was that it did not leak out sooner. The life insurance company had promoted Mr. Agnew on his marriage to a higher position and more salary, but as an offset he must delve into statistics until he could reel right off the number of old women in Indiana who would die before the year expired, and the number of old men in Michigan who would never see another Christmas. He must gather into the folds of his memory all the diseases that carried the insured to the grave—the average of longevity since Moses came out of the bulrushes—the action of the human heart after a meal of pork and beans—what the difference was between a man taking three or six nips per day, and many other things.

He wasn't the man to give up after he had started in, simply because statistics danced before him day and night, but he kept on accumulating and his wife kept on thinking she was shamefully neglected, until a climax came. A friend hinted at divorce, and that brought the climax.

The plan adopted belonged to Mrs. Agnew alone. There was no statistics in it; that is, none that she had to bother with. Her husband had long since collected them. On a Thursday afternoon, when the cook had gone to the moving picture show, the wife worked up an expression befitting such an occasion and put on her bat and cloak and went to a drug store three blocks away. She had been in there before with her husband. It was the proprietor that came forward, and after swallowing the lump in her throat, she gently asked:

"Heavens, Man, If—"

"Do you keep arsenic?"

"Certainly, ma'am. What is it to be used for?"

The stereotyped reply on such occasions is "Rats!" and it was given.

"But why not take a rat exterminator?"

"I'd rather have arsenic."

"You'll have to write your name and address in the book."

"Very well."

It was written, and after she had secured enough arsenic to give fifty rats that tired feeling and then some more she departed.

"Mrs. Stephen Agnew, 234 Vine avenue," read the druggist again as soon as the poison customer had left; and then he asked of his clerk:

"Isn't that the wife of that insurance fellow who has come in here quite often to get something for 'robbery in the head'?"

"She looked as if she was in trouble, and I'm sorry I let her have the stuff. Well, I'm clear of the law, anyhow."

Two hours later the husband dropped into the store to say that he had wheels in his head again, and the druggist queried:

"Married, aren't you?"

"Oh, yes."

"Live at 234 Vine avenue?"

"Yes. About the wheels in my head. You must—"

"But I wanted to say that your wife was in here this afternoon and bought arsenic."

"Good Lord!"

"To poison rats."

"But there isn't a rat about the house! Heavens, man, if—"

And he went up the street on the run, with the German delusion man and many small boys crying "Stop thief!" behind him. The few seconds that it took him to unlock the door seemed hours. Down the hall and into the sitting room, and he reeled as he noted what was on the reading table. A glass of water, a spoon, a square of paper bearing the label "Arsenic!"

"She's done it!"

Mr. Agnew's statistics told him that at least four residents of Vine avenue ought to commit suicide that year, but it had never occurred to him that his wife might be one of the number. With a groan that ended in a wall he entered the bedroom. There, on the bed, was his wife, and clutched in her fingers was a slip of paper bearing the words:

"I forgive you! Farewell!"

A cry—a wall—the doctor! The medical man said it was probably too late, but he would do his best. If the patient had taken all the poison it was an overdose and her life might be saved. Mr. Agnew was sent for emetics and a stomach pump and then kept busy in the kitchen, and the doctor was about to begin serious work when the woman sat up in bed and whispered:

"Is he out in the kitchen?"

"Yes. Did you take poison?"

"Not a grain."

"Well, what sort of a circus do you call this?"

"I—I want to scare Stephen."

"Oh, I see. So the poison is all a bluff?"

"Stephen is a good man, doctor, but he's all taken up with statistics or something and I can't get him out of the house of an evening or enjoy his company myself. I thought he ought to have a shock. Help me with it."

The doctor did. Mr. Agnew came in from the kitchen with mustard-water and the hot-water bag and salt and various other things, and he heard the stomach pump going and the doctor saying to himself that there was just one chance in a thousand. If statistics in that case are ever compiled, they will show that his tears flowed freely.

Drawn back from the grave at last, and the doctor taken his departure, the husband hung over the bed and appealed:

"Darling, what drove you to do it—what, what?"

"Your neglect."

"But I—I—"

"You had got to be a stick of statistics. You thought of nothing else. You handed me mortuary tables from morning 'til night, and made me dream of them as well. Why, Stephen, I can tell you how many men in Ohio will break their necks in the next twelve months."

"Um! I see. I had to learn the tables and carry them in my head."

The recovery of the patient was so rapid that the husband left for the office at the usual hour next morning. He was back in a couple of hours, however, to exclaim:

"Now old times shall come back!"

"What is it, dear?"

"I've changed from life to fire insurance."

"Yes?"

"All the statistics you have to carry in fire insurance is that out of 3,000 farm barns, 21 will be struck by lightning between May and October!"

Digs Mile of Ditch a Day.

The largest excavating machine ever built is capable of digging a mile of ditch six feet deep and 12 feet wide every day. It is employed in the construction of canals and laterals comprising an irrigation system to water the 16,000 acres which compose the Cudaby ranch, situated in the Imperial valley of Mexico. The conditions are identical with those of the valley of the Nile, for this ranch is of silt lands built up by the ages of overflow of the Rio Grande. The machine weighs 100,000 pounds and covers an area of 25x60 feet. It is entirely of steel construction and is propelled by two thirty horse power oil engines. The fore part of the machine carries the engines which drive a shaft wheel, which in turn, by a series of cogs and chains, propels the machine over the ground and at the same time operates the immense circular digger carried at the rear. This digger is equipped with scoops bearing sharpened blades of steel. It first picks up the dirt and, revolving upward, drops its burden on to conveyors which carry it to both sides, depositing it upon the banks of the excavation. The machine is so nicely adjusted that it can dig a ditch from two inches up to eight feet in depth and from four to 12 feet wide, shaping and finishing the excavation as it proceeds. With this machine seven men do the work of 50 scraper shovels hauled by 100 mules, with a driver for each team.

Wanted to Save His Soul.

The extension division of the University of Kansas has one less package library on socialism since a woman at Harper took the liberty recently of showing her opinion regarding such literature.

A young man rooming in her house had obtained from the university a number of books dealing with Socialism. He had left them on his library table. The woman, in cleaning up his room, found the volumes which to her mind represented all the evils of anarchy and infidelity and unmentionable crimes. She decided to save the young man from danger and lost no time in putting the vile books into the fire.

The young man wrote an anxious letter to the extension department explaining the matter, and the department has decided to excuse him. From the University of Kansas.

B. M. A. LECTURES JULY 1

Under the auspices of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association there will be a lecture in the City Council Chamber Monday, July 1st, at 10:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m., on the two most important subjects that are of interest to the farmers, namely: "Weeds and how to destroy them," "Insects detrimental and beneficial." The special committee on Agriculture composed of some twenty-eight farmers with only six active members met in the office of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association Saturday, June 15th, at 10:00 a. m., and selected the two above named subjects for the speaker to discuss, and appointed each one present to make himself a committee of one to bring as many new members or prospective members to the next Committee meeting Saturday, June 29th, to complete arrangements for July 1st. meeting.

We would like for each farmer in the county to attend these lectures which will be very beneficial, and will reward the Agricultural Department of the State, which is the only compensation they ask by being present and trying to secure knowledge that will be of use to them on the farm.

We also want it understood that these meetings are for the farmer and absolutely free of cost, and, it is our desire to have the farmers discuss at these meetings things that are of importance to them personally and that they are free to ask any question they might wish to ask.

Any farmer who is desirous of becoming an active member of this committee and who will devote a few minutes of his time each week in soliciting new members and advancing the scientific farming methods, may secure membership by applying to the secretary of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association.

It is the intention of the Association at large, and of each individual, to extend a hearty welcome to all who are concerned in this work and would like for every one coming into Hopkinsville to make the office of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association their headquarters.

Kindly remember the date and the hour and tell your neighbor, that he may partake of the opportunity that is now offered.

TAKING IT TO THE PEOPLE

A GREAT deal is being said nowadays thruout this country about taking public problems direct to the people. This is what President Taft and Col. Roosevelt have been doing lately, and what all those interested in great public questions must do more and more as the years go by.

In the forthcoming Chautauqua here many important problems will be discussed. It is impossible for all the people in the United States to attend any one Chautauqua. The Chautauqua must be taken to the people eventually in nearly every county of the land where the population warrants it. The Redpath Bureau under whose direction the Chautauqua in this county is being given this year, is the greatest factor in the world today in this work of carrying a Chautauqua Program to the people. More than 250 Chautauquas are operated under Redpath management and the number is rapidly increasing.

Send word to all your friends to come to our forthcoming Chautauqua. Especially if they have never before attended a Chautauqua program, it will be a revelation to them.

Their Elders

By EDWARD MOBERLY

John MacWilliams, Jr., was deeply engrossed in a set of plans and specifications when a boy entered his office.

"Lady to see you, sir," announced the youngster, laying a card upon the blue print which his employer was scrutinizing.

In a moment the owner of the card appeared. She was a comely young person, garbed in a tailored suit and possessed of the attractive combination of golden hair and brown eyes.

"Good morning, Miss Mason!" exclaimed MacWilliams, as he placed a chair for her. "What brings you into a region where prosaic industry holds sway?"

"A rather difficult errand, Mr. MacWilliams," she replied nervously. "To come to the point, father told me last night that he has become engaged to your mother."

"Whew! Nothing slow about your father, is there? But then they both had the advantage of previous experience. Mother hasn't seen fit to break the news to me yet."

"Well, they've done it, and I've come to see what you think we ought to do about it."

"I don't see that we can do anything," said MacWilliams dubiously. "In fact, I'm rather inclined to say that your father has displayed excellent taste. I must admit, however, that I am not enamored of the idea of mother's marrying again."

"That's just the way I feel about it," agreed the girl eagerly. "Your mother's a lovely woman. No one can deny that; and if this thing must be done, I am glad it is to be she—but, somehow, when I think of another taking mother's place, I just can't reconcile myself to it."

"I understand," he said gently. "I feel the same way about my father."

"Do you think, then, that we might take some action with a view to breaking off the—er—affair?" was her hopeful question.

"Yes, we might attempt something," was his deliberate answer; "but I've always understood, Miss Mason, that messing in the love affairs of others is likely to bring more discomfort to the messengers than it does to the messes. However, since our wishes in this matter run parallel, I will see if I can do anything with mother."

After a week had elapsed MacWilliams ventured to call on her.

"Well," she asked.

"Did you?" both began, and then their laughter overcame them.

"To be frank, I didn't," he confessed. "I had an excellent opportunity, too. Mother told me about it the night after you came to the office. Instead of trying to throw cold water on her plans, I'll be blessed if I didn't find myself murmuring congratulations."

"Miss Mason, I very much fear that I shall be able to do but little in this case. My mother is a very capable woman, who knows just what she is about. When my father died she took hold of his great business and not only held it intact, but extended it until I had been brought up and trained to fill his place."

"She never sets out to do a thing until she has bestowed due consideration upon it, but when she does set out she is a splendid example in singleness of purpose. She is set upon this marriage, and I confess I haven't the nerve to turn her aside."

"My report is much the same," admitted the girl. "I simply do not know how to go about dissuading father. He is like your mother. He never does a thing without thinking carefully upon it."

MacWilliams made other calls upon Miss Mason to report progress and to receive reports of progress, as he said, but their report bore mainly upon the progress made by the older folks in their preparations for their marriage.

"It begins to look as if we shall simply stand aside without a protest and let them marry each other," said Miss Mason dolefully one evening when the wedding was not far off; "and all because neither of us has sufficient courage to tell them a few truths they are both old enough to know," she added spitefully.

"O, come now," said MacWilliams. "They are not committing a crime. Don't you think sometimes that we are a mite selfish in our attitude toward them? Isn't it true, after all, that aside from our prejudices, the match is a desirable one in every particular? Remember they are not in their dotage; they are just in the prime of life. Neither has yet reached fifty. They wouldn't be rash in anticipating many happy years together."

"John MacWilliams!" exclaimed the girl. "Whatever has come over you? You talk as if you were in favor of it."

"I am," he admitted shamelessly. "I know it sounds like rank heresy; but I have thought it over, and I wish to say that I am glad it is going to happen."

"Would you mind telling me why?" she asked coldly.

"Because, Janet, it will make you my little sister. I never had a sister, and the idea of getting you for one is mighty pleasing. Don't you want me for a brother?"

The girl pondered deeply over this.

"Of course I do, John," she said finally. "I've always wanted a brother so badly, and I feel that you will make a splendid big brother. I declare I feel almost reconciled to father's marrying now."

The wedding day of the older folks came, and after being married amid much pomp and ceremony they departed on their honeymoon, blissfully unaware of the fact that their thankless offspring had schemed to prevent it. That evening John called upon Janet.

"It Has Taken Me 25 Years to Acquire a Sister."

"Good evening, little sister," was his greeting.

"How do you do, big brother?"

"Say that again, will you?"

"And now stand here in front of me and let me look at you," he commanded, after she had said it. "It has taken me twenty-five years to acquire a sister, you know, and naturally I want to make sure that the goods is up to sample."

"It certainly is," he continued, after an admiring inspection. "The good Lord was generously inclined when you were born, little girl—and now for a brotherly kiss—"

There was a struggle, and she sprang away from him with her cheeks aflame.

"That is carrying our little make-believe too far, John," she said, half in anger, half in sorrow. "If you are going to act that way, I don't think I shall like you in the role of brother."

"And I am quite certain I shall not like the role," he replied.

"I am glad you have come to your senses."

"I have. Surely you know, Janet, that that was not a brother's kiss, little girl."

The angry flame in her face was superseded by a softer glow.

"Does that make it any less heinous?" he asked.

She was silent.

"Does it?" he persisted.

"Yes; far less," was her murmured reply.

"And shall we soon follow the excellent example our elders set for us?" he asked, taking her in his arms.

"Yes, big brother," she almost whispered. "Isn't it terrible that we ever thought of interfering with those two old dears?"

"On the contrary, it's a blessing that we did; for it brought me—you," was his answer.—New York Press.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear, there is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it has a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by the Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

Summit, N. C. —In a letter received from this place, Mr. J. W. Church, the notary public, says: "My wife had been ailing for nearly 12 years, from female ailments, and at times, was unable to leave the house. She suffered agony with her side and back. We tried physicians for years, without relief. After these treatments all failed, she took Cardui, and gained in weight at once. Now she is red and rosy as a school girl. Cardui, as a tonic for women, has brought remarkable results. It relieves pain and misery and is the ideal tonic for young and old. Try it. At all druggists."

WOMAN SHOT

And Killed By Negro Boy Near Thompsonville.

Grace Southall, a colored girl 20 years old, was shot and killed near Thompsonville, Monday night. Selden Waters, aged 19, is in jail charged with her murder. He surrendered after the shooting, claiming that it was accidental. The woman had discarded Waters and he had threatened her life. They were in a room alone sitting on a bed. Children heard Waters say "You don't believe I'll shoot" and the woman said "Don't point that pistol this way." The report followed. The woman was shot in the neck and died in five hours.

He is the son of Circuit Clerk Walter A. Radford, of Hopkinsville, Christian county, and is the youngest of the three successful candidates from Kentucky to pass the examinations for admission to West Point Military Academy, having just turned seventeen years old, the earliest age at which appointment to the academy may be made under the law. He will leave for West Point next Monday, stopping a few hours in Louisville and making a short visit in Philadelphia on the way, under instructions to report at the academy next Friday at noon.

Aged Woman Victim.

Louisville, June 19.—Mary Louise Kelley, age seventy-seven years and bent with old age, was criminally assaulted and murdered near Jeffersonville, Indiana, Monday morning.

George Kelley, her grandson aged 20, committed the crime and after stealing $100 from her, ran away, but when cornered by the police drank corbolic acid and died.

Rebel Leader Killed.

Washington, June 19.—Admiral Usher from Guantanamo cabled the Navy Department a confirmation of the report that Gen. Espinoz, the Cuban insurgent leader, had been killed and that Gen. Lacoste, the paralytic rebel General, had been captured by the government forces.

Studebaker Robbed.

Northampton, N. H., June 19.—Jewelry worth between $12,000 and $15,000 was stolen some time last night from the safe in the summer residence of George M. Studebaker of Chicago, at Little Borshead, near here. William Thomas, the butler, is missing.

The Hercules

Is the buggy bought by many conservative buyers, because it is a great value and is conservatively priced. It is beyond question the best buggy for the price sold to-day.

What Havana Hears.

Havana, June 19.—While the government tonight does not divulge any further news from Oriente it continues to insist that the insurgent leader, Estencz, is fleeing before the Cuban troops with a handful of followers. Associated Press advices from Santiago, however, report the existence of two bodies of insurgents numbering upwards of 2,000 men, of which 1,500 are encamped near the El Cuero mines, with the apparent intention of attacking the garrison and marines there.

PANAMA CANAL

Is Five-Sixths Completed And Will Be Done Next Year.

Washington, June 19.—Less than one-sixth of the entire amount of excavation for the Panama canal remains to be completed. At the present rate of work, in less than ten months, all excavating will be done and nothing will remain to finish except the locks and the general overhead work. Colonel Goethals expects to send the first vessel from the Atlantic to the Pacific through the canal in either August or September, 1913. This feat will not mean that the new waterway will be ready for the traffic of the world, but will be made as a test for the locks and operating forces. There will yet remain much work to be completed, and the formal opening of the canal for ships of commerce will be celebrated on January 1, 1915.

Advertisements of the Hopkins County and Henderson County Fairs appear in this issue. Both are under the general management of Judge C. C. Givens and never fail to draw large and well pleased crowds. Reduced rates will be offered by the railroads.

Passenger's Voluntary Tip Clears Up
Mystery for Street Car Conductor.

A stout lady entered a well-filled street car with her diminutive husband. They sat down side by side and she promptly moved over on top of him to give room for another passenger. "Maria," came from somewhere underneath, "will you please pay the fare? I can't reach for my pocket."

As the conductor approached the following dialogue took place:

"Fares, please."
"Two," said Maria, handing over a dime.

"One?" he questioned as his eyes searched the seat.

"Two," disdainfully.

"Madame, I can only accept fare for one. Your size has nothing to do with it."

"Sir; would you insult a lady?"

"Never, madame. But where's the passenger you wish to pay for?"

Maria gave over an inch or two and glared at the man in the uniform.

"She's sitting on him," a passenger across the aisle volunteered.

"It probably isn't the first time," mumbled the conductor as he gave the register a violent ring. Maria's husband came up suddenly for breath, but sank with the next lurch of the car.

PRISONER MADE $300 A DAY

Paris Banker Conducts Extensive Financial Transactions From His Cell.

The Paris police recently raided a financial establishment in the rue Lafitte and confiscated the contents of the safe as well as the books, thereby putting a stop to the lucrative source of revenue of a banker named Zucco, who has been in prison for several months for irregular financial transactions.

M. Zucco, although occupying a cell, first at the Sante and then at Fresnes, contrived to open another financial establishment in the same house as that occupied by his bank, which was closed by the police when he was arrested.

From his cell he directed a scheme for getting small investors to subscribe jointly for lottery bonds.

Business went well. The new establishment was soon employing ten clerks, and M. Zucco in his cell was making about $300 a day. But disappointed clients informed the police.—New York Tribune.

HABIT OF FROWNING.

"Do you frown unconsciously from habit or defective eyesight?"
asked an elderly woman of a young girl the other day. Continuing:

"Do you realize that each frown lessens your chance of popularity—your chance for making friends? You may not be so cross as you look,
but the world is not going to take the trouble to discover it.

"Did you ever stop to think that no one admires a frown, therefore not the features of a Venus and the coloring of a Henner can make up for the scowling lines between the eyes?"

"Do you know that the frowning habit will limit your chance of success as a worker? A smiling countenance and the good disposition that generally accompanies it count for more in the business world than the frowner will ever believe.

"Whatever causes those frowns, be it temper, envy, fretfulness or bad eyes, should be fought against. It will take patience and constant watchfulness, but it can be done."

SAFER AND SURER.

"I want you for my very own," said the rich old gentleman, when he had succeeded in getting the beautiful girl to listen to him.

"But how can I be your very own?"

"Why—why, you can marry me, can't you?"

"I suppose I could, but don't you think, if you really want me, it would be safer to adopt me?"— Judge's Library.

GETTING THE FACTS.

"Yes," said Broncho Bob, "Tarantula Tim said as how he guessed he'd better leave Crimson Gulch; so he did."

"You telephoned it, friend."

Cardui is the greatest remedy for ted for women's needs. It relieves

Cardui. A few doses will show you what it can do for you. It may be just what you want.

ENGLAND'S LAST FATAL DUEL

Hawkey-Seton Conflict, in Which Latter Fell, Ended Code of Honor in Britain.

It would be difficult to find anybody who remembers the last fatal duel in this country. The date was May 20, 1845, and the place a spot on the shore near Gosport. Lieutenant Hawkey of the Royal Marines, believing Lieutenant Seton had paid too much attention to his wife at a Southsea function, called him a villain and blackguard, threatening to horsewhip him and attempted to kick him.

Although dueling had been for-bidden by articles of war in 1844, after the horror caused by the death of Colonel Fawcett at the hands of his brother-in-law, Lieutenant Munro, in 1843, the provocation in the Hawkey-Seton case was such that a meeting resulted. Seton fired and missed. The hammer of Hawkey's pistol being set on the safety notch, it would not go off. At the second discharge Seton fell. Hawkey fled to France.—London Chronicle.

HAD THE GIFT OF TONGUES

Perpetual Candidate in Kentucky Who Always Coined Words as He Needed Them.

There used to be a war veteran in Owen county, Ky., who was always running for office and never getting it. He was a candidate by profession, breeding and instinct. He also had the gift of tongues. When he needed a word and couldn't find it he made up one out of his head and went right on. Once, in delivering an impromptu eulogy over a dead resident of his town, he said of him:

"And, finally, our friend was,
above all, a man of great migrosity and general understanding throughout the neighborhood!"

At another time he was making the race for county judge. He and his opponent were holding a joint debate. He thought some of the other man's statements rather reflected on him, and up he jumped.
"Mr. Green," he demanded, "are you trying to recontricate upon my feelings?"

"Not at all," said the other man, wondering what recontricate meant.

"Then, sir, in that case I extend to you the olive branch of peace," said the coiner of language.—Saturday Evening Post.

PLEASURE IS ALL HIS.

Gibbs—I hear that Bronson is very happy as an after-dinner speaker.

Dibbs—Possibly, but that's more than can be said for his audience.

CONSISTENCY.

"They say Mrs. Coldster is very consistent in her temperance theories."

"So much so that she will not dress in any but sober colors."

RETORT COURTEOUS.

Mr. Grouch—Women certainly have a mania for getting cheap things.

Miss Gall—I suppose that is why your wife came to marry you.

THESE DAYS.

"Do you believe pride goes before a fall?"

"I'm not so sure that is always the case, but pride frequently goes before a punctured tire."

EASILY STATED.

Mrs. Stone—What is the difference between an investment and a speculation, dear?"

Kirby Stone—If you lose, it's a speculation.—Puck.

MODERN COMPETITION.

"With the good position you had in view why did you break your engagement?"

"My fiancée took the position."—
Fliegende Blätter.

GOOD REASON.

Scott—Hobbs is a terribly quarrelsome fellow. He'd rather fight than eat.

Mott—So would I if I had his dyspepsia.

HER STYLE.

"I hear Miss Maymo is quite a pyrotechnic artist."

"Yes. She has talent in that line to burn."

IRRIGATION FARMING IS DEVELOPING RAPIDLY

Building of Storage Reservoirs Is Placing This Industry on a Reliable Basis.

1—Snowy Range, Where the Water Comes From for Irrigation. 2—Irrigating Canal in the Arkansas Valley, Colorado. 3—Wheat Fields in Colorado. Rocky Mountains in the Background.

For some time experts have recognized that the so-called arid country in the Rocky mountain region must some day be made to yield a vast amount of agricultural products, but they also have realized that this could not be accomplished except by irrigation.

The soil in that section is rich and the water supply is said to be ample once it is properly stored so as to assure the farmer of a continual supply during the growing season. This is being accomplished gradually.

Colorado excels all other states in the amount of land under irrigation. The census of 1910 showed that 4,000,000 acres were under ditch, and it was reported that with the completion of irrigation projects under way and in contemplation, the acreage would be increased to 6,000,000 acres. This is approximately one-fourth of the arable area of the state.

In the past the mistake was made often of over-estimating the capacity of an irrigation project. Time and experience has taught the builders to avoid this error and the aim is to put just enough land under ditch that can be adequately watered during the entire irrigating season. This policy is restoring confidence in irrigation and will eventually cause the state to be completely settled with prosperous farmers.

Colorado's annual agricultural output is now something more than $100,000,000. This includes fruit raising, which, in normal years, aggregates about $7,000,000.

Reliable data shows that the yield of an irrigated farm in Colorado is more than twice the yield of land in a rain-belt country. It is estimated that the net returns from a well cultivated irrigated farm is at least 25 per cent on the valuation of the farm. It is not unusual for a Colorado farm to pay for itself in two or three years where the farmer couples intelligence and frugality together. Approximately $60,000,000 has been expended in the construction of irrigation projects in Colorado. The total value of Colorado farm lands is placed at $360,000,000.

STATEMENT OF COMPARATIVE PLAYGROUNDS

Pike's Peak, Colorado, Altitude, 14,109 Feet, Which Can Be Seen for Many Miles Out on the Plains. A Glimpse of Manitou at the Base.

Switzerland is called "the playground of Europe." Colorado is termed "the playground of America."

The mean elevation of the highest Alpine chain is only from 8,000 to 9,000 feet. Colorado possesses more than 120 peaks of over 13,500 feet altitude, of which no fewer than 35 peaks range from 14,000 upward.

These figures are sent out from Colorado by advocates of the See America First movement.

Further information from this same source shows that the highest village in Europe is Avers Platz, in Switzerland—altitude, 7,500 feet. The highest inhabited point is the Hospice of St. Bernard in Switzerland—8,200 feet. In Colorado the mining town of Leadville, with 12,000 inhabitants, is 10,200 feet above sea level. Other mining camps are still higher, and some gold and silver camps are worked at over 13,000 feet altitude.

There are wagon roads over mountain passes in Colorado ranging from 12,000 feet upward, the highest being Mosquito pass—13,700 feet.

Switzerland has a cog-railroad four

Cog-Railroad Station on Top of Pike's Peak.

and one-half miles long which ascends to an altitude of 4,072 feet. The cog-railroad from Manitou to the top of Pike's peak is eight and three-quarters miles long and the ascent is 8,100 feet, reaching an altitude of 14,109 feet above sea level.

"See America First," is the slogan. See the west, the east, the north and the south—then go to Europe if you must.

Really the Only Way Out.
"Young man, how do you expect to marry my daughter if you are in debt?" "Why, sir, in my opinion, it's the only square thing to do. The longer I am engaged to her, the worse off I will be."—Life.

ONE OF THE SIX HUNDRED. Our community is fortunate this season in being one of 600 Chautauqua centers on the American Continent. Hundreds of places have long wanted Chautauquas, but can not get them. It costs lots of money to bring tents, platforms, seats, speakers of National reputation, and an army of magicians, musicians and other entertainers to participate in a great seven-day continuous program.

Local Enterprise supplemented by the capital and other resources of the Redpath Bureau—the oldest Bureau in the world, also the fact that this place is within easy one-day railroad connection with other notable Chautauquas, has made it possible for us to boast of being one of America's 600 Chautauqua centers.

Best of all, this year's success means permanency, and that this place will be the mecca for thousands during Chautauqua week every year.

SOLUTION of The HIGH COST of LIVING!

There never has been any serious doubt that Mother Earth could feed and clothe all her children. Famine in one country and abundance in the next do not mean that nature has failed, but simply that there is not proper exchange between the people; that there is something wrong in their merchandising. Providing an instant and profitable exchange between people who need things and people who make things is the kind of merchandising that lowers the cost of living. With something like this in mind,

SATURDAY, JUNE 22ND—CONTINUING 10 DAYS

we will begin a wonderful cut sale. Seven big stocks of clean fresh merchandise priced TO LOWER THE HIGH COST OF LIVING. The people in these counties know our CUT SALE methods; they know the standard of our merchandise, and we invite you to this, our greatest cut sale, with absolute assurance of more than satisfying you. Saturday June 22nd, and every day for ten days.
